It is a good ticket.

GREGG, MORRISON and victory.

It will all come out now. Reed goes fishing, but is no sucker.

CLERK SNYDER eats ice cream with a spoon. It will all come out now.

COMMISSIONER BOWEN flirts with the girls. It will all come out now.

COMMISSIONER DETMERS speaks the Pennsylvania Dutch dialect. It will all come out now.

WITH two such gallant soldiers as Gregg and Morrison on the ticket, it ought to sweep the state, and it will.

It will all come out now, that the ticket nominated yesterday will be triumphantly elected, and by a rousing majority, too.

MILWAUKEE children suffered to a remarkable extent from the hot wave of last week. The deaths in the city during the week numbering 149, and of these victims 103 (or two-thirds) were children under five years of age. It is seldom that the proportion of children is so high.

THE nomination of Joseph H. Pomeroy, Esq., as one of the delegates-at-large to the Constitutional Convention, was a most excellent move.

THE nomination of Joseph H. Pomeroy, Esq., for delegate-at-large to the Constitutional Convention, meets with a hearty approval of the voters of both parties in this county. Mr. Pomeroy will poll a very large vote and his presence in the Convention is now a certainty. He will be a valuable member of that important body.

PRESIDENT PAGE, of the Farmers' Alliance of Virginia, makes an otherwise well considered speech from the farmers' standpoint by the exaggerated statement that in this country "there are ten millions people who never have enough to eat from one year's end to the other." That would mean nearly one-sixth of the entire population suffered for food! Intense indignation is expressed at this. It would not be true even of great cities, where misery and suffering as well as wealth are concentrated.

Is the world's story the prosperity of one nation is often linked with the bitter grinding needs of another. While the people of the United States are planning to send abroad a surplus of 200,000,000 bushels of one cereal alone the people of Russia are—even now before a harvest which must destroy nearly every hope of life—starving upon grass boiled in water, and parents are advertising their children "for sale," in order not to see them die before their eyes. Who is responsible, or what, for this state of things? Obviously there is misgovernment of the worst kind. While many millions are annually wasted upon increasing military forces, already too large—and increase that bears correspondingly hard upon the peasants and other poor of all the great countries of Europe—the czar closes the only high school of agriculture, to repress political dissension among students; keeps the people in ignorance, retards the improvement of the country abounding in natural resources, and squanders everything upon a landed aristocracy and dreams of conquest.

TOWN TALKER.

ITEMS GLEANED IN THE EDITOR'S SANCTUM.

THE TATTLES OF THE TATTLER.

Gossip That is Dished Up to the Newspaper Man in His Sanctum Mingled With Scraps Caught by Himself.

As the cleaning of streets up to a comparatively recent date has been a matter left almost entirely in the hands of the householders, it may be interesting to note a few of the different methods employed by some of the representative European cities, as compared with our modern Yankee ways. Even at this time the property holders in many German cities are required to keep a part, and in some cases the whole of the paved areas in condition. Where the traffic is not too great, the area of the streets not too extensive, the task is not so arduous as might be supposed. In Munich and Strasbourg for instance, the householders are not compelled to carry the labor of cleaning the street from the front of the dwelling out to the center of the thoroughfare. A certain part varying from four to eight meters in width is the allotted portion of each householder. By this method a strip is left in the center of each roadway which must be taken care of by the municipal authorities.

In some European cities it is a common custom for the authorities to look after the roadways, or streets, from curb to curb, while the householder takes care of the sidewalk. This seems about a fair division of labor, but as the keeping of the sidewalk free of dirt in Shenandoah is not compulsory, but merely an act of obedience to an unwritten law, by all fair-minded people, those who are disposed to be slovenly in the matter, have ample opportunity to do so. In fact there are many who are quite ready to criticize any short-coming in the street committee, who are unmindful of the importance of keeping their own doorsteps and sidewalks swept clean.

Supervisor Llewellyn inaugurated an excellent policy some weeks ago by volunteering to remove all dirt from the streets if swept into heaps by the property owners and tenants. Clean streets resulted from it for a while, but the non-cleaners were quite numerous and the system was not as successful as hoped for. It would be a good idea if the citizens and supervisor could agree upon some plan by which they could co-operate in a general street cleaning movement once a week. It would pay.

The ways in which the children of the poor add to the family resources during the summer, when schools are closed and the teachers are off on a vacation, are many and varied. The other day, the reporter watched a small boy about 10 years old, who went from saloon to saloon and cigar store to cigar store, begging for empty cigar boxes.

He had quite a collection when the reporter ran across him and asked what he did with them.

"Sell 'em, of course," was the reply. "You see," he continued, in a burst of confidence, "there's a lot of blokes that makes all sorts of things out of them with a scroll saw. They make better boxes, things for holding stationery, racks for pens and all them kind of things. See?"

Further inquiry showed that the cigar boxes sold for a nickel apiece, and were in lively demand, but were hard to get, "for they drive us out of one half the saloons, and half the rest never seem to have an empty box," added the boy, "an' it's the same with the cigar stores."

A drummer who visited town a few evenings ago displayed a card that excited some interest and will bear publication. It was headed "Life, a Game of Cards" and ran as follows: "Man's life is a game of cards. First it's a cribbage; next, he tries to 'go it alone' at a sort of 'cut, shuffle and deal' game; then he gambles on the 'green'; then he 'raises the ducats,' when his mother takes a 'hard in,' and contrary to rule 'beats the little joker' with her 'five,' then with his 'diamond' he wins the 'queen of hearts.' Tired of 'playing a lone hand' he desires to 'assist' his fair 'partner,' 'throws out his card,' and a clergyman takes a 'ten-dollar bill out of him on a 'raid.' She 'orders him up' to build fires. Like a 'knight' he joins the clubs, where he often gets 'high,' which is 'low' too. If he keeps 'straight' he is sometimes 'dash.' He grows old and 'buff' and a 'deal' of trouble, when at last he 'shuffles' off the mortal coil and 'passes in his checks.' As he is 'raked in' by a 'spide,' life's final 'game' is ended, and he waits the summons of Gabriel's 'trump,' which will 'order him up.'"

It Knows Them.

The Evening Chronicle is authority for the fact that Inspector McMahon, of Ashland, Ohio, of Shenandoah, and Gay, of Potosi, held their regular weekly meeting at the bar on Saturday. The boys are in the habit of meeting around and having a drink, and the statement would not seem unusual if it were not for the fact that the record of the Shaw machine is given as the subject of discussion. "The machine is not a bad one," McMahon concludes, "the Grand is, it remains in the office of the mine inspector. The oldest game is the gas by means of rubber bags, which have pumping apparatus attached." Such being the case, we don't wonder the inspectors met and talked it over. The Book Diamond knows these gentlemen very well. They are all three great, broad shouldered, noblehearted men, capable of doing a job with infinite tenderness or resorting to an insult with for cause severity, but when it comes to carrying on a game around the corner the subject certainly requires careful consideration on their part. Oh for another excursion! one of the features of which shall be a procession of mine inspectors, each with a well-filled gas bag. Oh for a glimpse of the expression on Inspector Gay's face when he brings home his first charge.—Block Diamond.

Obituary.

Bertha May Starr died at an early hour this morning at the residence of her parents, John Z. and Susan Starr, 121 East Coal street, aged 19 years, 7 months and 19 days. She had been ailing for almost a year from an illness started by an attack of grip. The funeral will take place at 1 p. m. on Sunday. Services will be held in the Trinity Reformed church and the remains will be interred in the Old Fellows' cemetery.

Mrs. Radford, of St. Clair, died at her home in that place this morning after a lingering illness. Funeral will take place on Sunday, two o'clock, at St. Clair. The deceased was the mother of Mrs. Boes, of West Coal street, this town, and was well known here.

Notice.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Citizens' Electric Light Co., of Shenandoah, will be held August 29th, 1891, between the hours of two and four p. m., at the office of said company, No. 24 N. ## BOLD BAD BENDER

HELD ON A SERIES OF SERIOUS CHARGES.

INSULT HEAPED UPON INJURY.

After Deceiving a Young Girl and Jumped His Ball He Enticed Her Younger Sister From Home.

William Bender, a Polish young man of this town, was placed in the county jail this morning to stand trial on a series of charges and, in view of the evidence already in possession of the authorities, he stands a good chance for becoming a guest of the county for a number of months.

Bender is about 25 years of age, is a fairly good looking fellow, and has good command of the English language.

Some time ago Bender was arrested for betraying Susan, the daughter of Stephen Hinks, of Emorick street. Bender furnished $1,000 bail to stand trial at court, but when the case was called, he failed to appear. He had skipped, and the bond he had given proved to be worthless. Mrs. Hinks then caused the arrest of the Polish man who furnished the bond and he is now under bail for trial.

About two weeks ago Bender made a secret visit to town and managed to arrange an interview with Patience Hinks, a sister of the girl he betrayed and who is under 16 years of age.

A few days later Patience and Bender disappeared and Mrs. Hinks swore out a warrant for the latter's arrest, charging him with enticing an infant female child away for the purpose of marriage.

The warrant was placed in the hands of Chief of Police Amour on Monday evening, who arrested Bender at Shamokin. He was given a hearing before Squire Williams last night.

During the hearing it was learned that Squire Davidson, of Shamokin, granted a marriage license to Bender and Patience, upon the former swearing he was 25 years of age and the latter swearing she was "over age." They were subsequently married by the priest of the Polish Catholic church of Shamokin.

The marriage document was produced and it was found to be a certificate of the marriage of William Bender and "Mary" Hinks. Bender then explained that the Polish priest refused to perform the ceremony unless Patience would change her christian name, as the church could not recognize the name "Patience." The girl then consented to adopt the name "Mary" and under that name she was married.

After the hearing Bender was placed in the lockup. This morning he was taken to the county jail on the 6 o'clock Pennsylvania train and placed securely behind the bars. Chief Amour then went to Shamokin to arrest the girl on a warrant sworn out by Stephen Hinks, the father, charging her with having become so incorrigible and morally depraved that she has rendered her control beyond the power of her father. Bender is in a bad fix. He must answer to the court on the old betrayal charge, must account for his rashness in jumping his bail and must suffer for enticing the younger girl from her home. When he gets through with this list of cases Tax Collector Schmidt will demand his body in satisfaction of taxes due for two years.

Home Industries.

EDITOR HERALD:—I observe in your paper of this evening that the street committee of the Borough Council has gone all the way to Tamqua to buy screens for the stone crusher when we have a screen factory in town. This is not patronizing home industry by any means, and I think it is a very poor example for our borough officials to set. They should buy anything in the town.

MERCHANT.

Shenandoah, Aug. 19, 1891.

Died.

TAYLOR.—On the 18th inst., at Shenandoah, Pa., Annie, daughter of Thomas W. and Mary Taylor, aged 10 years. Funeral will take place from the residence of the parents, No. 22 East Coal street, on Friday, 21st inst., at 1:30 o'clock. Services in the Protestant Episcopal church. Interment in the Old Fellows' cemetery. Friends and relatives invited to attend. 21

Progress.

It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasing to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing these qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

The Druggists Won.

A rather interesting game of base ball took place in the trotting park yesterday afternoon between two teams representing the tailors and druggists of town. The latter club won by the close score of 25 to 21.

Four tints for 25 cents, at Dabb's. If Advertise in the HERALD.

INSPECTED BY ROYALTY.

Queen Victoria Makes a Tour of the French Vessels To-day.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The cordial reception extended to the officers of the French fleet shows that England is going to steer clear of the Franco-German quarrel. To-day the Queen, accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh and the Duke of Connaught, inspected the French vessels in Osborne Bay, and in the evening Admiral Gervais and a number of the officers of the squadron will dine with her Majesty at Osborne.

Portsmouth is thronged with visitors, and both the authorities and the people of the town, who have pleasant recollections of the last visit of the French fleet to the town, in 1895, are anxious to make the visitors happy. No effort is spared by the Mayor to show the thoroughness of his welcome, and many men are employed in preparations for the civic entertainment, the Town Council having voted a large sum to assist the Mayor in meeting the expenses.

While the reception of the French fleet is likely to be a cordial and hospitable one, there will be nothing like the almost frantic enthusiasm of the Russian visit, so that Admiral Gervais will, it is expected, have no embarrassing explanations to make for the benefit of the czar. The Russian press has already declared that the visit will make no difference in the relations between France and Russia.

SUICIDES IN JAIL.

Two Women Use Their Clothing to Hang Themselves.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 20.—There was great excitement at the county jail in the morning when it was found that two women inmates had committed suicide. Anna Goscowsky, who was committed to the jail on August 17, and supposed to be insane, was found hanging by a rope made from her clothing, and was dead when removed.

Fifteen minutes afterward Mrs. Catherine Smith, committed on August 4, for attempting to murder her deformed son, was also found dead hanging by her skirt which she had twisted into a rope.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Louis Paulsen, the noted chess player of London, is dead.

President Harrison left Bennington, Vt., this morning for Mount McGregor.

The vessels of the White Squadron expect to sail for the naval station at Kittery, Me., to-day.

The Boston Board of Aldermen voted against making the fee for the theaters and other places of amusement $1,000 each.

Bella Nichol, aged 9, and Willie Nichol, aged 6, were drowned at Brockville, Ont., during the morning while bathing in the river.

The Jersey City Board of Finance has ordered Mayor Cleveland to account for the sinking fund. He intimates that he will not.

The wholesale furniture warehouse of R. Gray & Son at Hudson, N. Y., was damaged $15,000 by fire during the night. The drug store of Van Tassel & Tobey adjoining was damaged by water to a large amount. The total loss will probably reach $25,000, partly insured.

The foreman in the brick yard of Wiggin & Clark, at Exeter, N. H., had an altercation with four Italian laborers during the morning and they drew knives on him. Officer Thurston who was unarmed attempted to arrest one of the four when they attacked him with clubs and inflicted serious injuries, fracturing his skull. The Italians fled to a piece of woods which was quickly surrounded by citizens and police. After a desperate fight, several arrests were made.

A Costly Visit.

George and Stephen Toad, brothers, of Audenreid, who came to town this morning to participate in the Polish parade, were arrested by Policemen Connors and High Constable Stanton shortly after arrival here for fast backward riding on the streets. They were released upon Michael Pribula, the grocer, giving security for the payment of $8 75, fine and costs, by each man.

Postponed.

The picnic of the Evangelical Sunday school and congregation, to Delano, which was to be held on Thursday, has been postponed until the next day, Friday. All are earnestly invited to attend. 8-18-21
